

Touch is launched

Have you ever gotten a forward from a friend urging you to read it and send it on to your friends? We just launched TOUCH, an evangelistic outreach that uses email and people's tendencies to share cool things they get with their friends. People can click on a link that will take them to an interactive gospel presentation. From there they can go to our website to get questions answered, send the email to their friends, or even talk to one of us. Go check it out at www.whatistouch.org.

This project is at the heart of what the Innovation Center wants to do: find creative ways to use technology to share the gospel. The campus ministry wants to give every one of the 60 million college students around the world a chance to hear the gospel message. Sharing one-on-one will not accomplish the task, but we hope that we can provide tools that will help make this vision a reality. (We know already that one of our websites, www.everystudent.com, sees almost 250 students per month accept Christ.) Please pray that God would use TOUCH, and please feel free to send it to your friends.

40 days of Devotion

Last Sunday night we sat at our church and watched God place a huge ministry opportunity right in our laps. It was a night where anyone attending the church could come to get connected into a small group Bible study that would take place over the next 40 days. Heather and I will lead a group of 5 other married couples over the next 6 weeks. We were both struck by the diversity in the group, as far as where they are in their walks with God. People were honest, some were unsure about being there, others had never prayed in a group, others are looking for a breakthrough in their marriage. We feel a little overwhelmed, yet want to trust that God will use us and this group to draw us all closer to God and our spouses. Please pray for us, that we would show love and truth to each person involved.

New member of the family

Meet Bryce, our cat. (He has orange stripes and is named after Bryce Canyon in Utah— his coloring reminds us of it.) He's about 10 months old and full of energy, at least when he's not napping. He's teaching us patience, as his behavior is not always what we expect. (We are definitely learning about ourselves and what it looks like when someone or something is so dependent on you.)

Thanks for your partnership with us!
